

Killer: Doug aka DOG. 50's yo ex drag race car mechanic/ fabricator. Mother and father passed away from old age and natural causes. Growing up his 5 year difference younger Brother and him used to build and race cars together. Dogs brother was the racer, Dog was the mechanic and fabricator. They were a great team together. DOG would spend many days and hours in all the local junkyards pulling replacement parts or making other parts work for his brothers street raced car to make it the fastest. Brother nicknamed him DOG, as in junkyard dog.

Bother got in freak accident at junkyard, Brother and him was working on pulling a vehicles engine and transmission drive train. Dog thought that the engine/ transmission was free from being attached to the vehicles rear end differential. But it hung up and just couldn't get it up and out. Dog's Brother was underneath vehicle trying to shake the hug up shaft loose so dog can pull it up and out. Dog was up top under the vehicle's hood while his brother was under shaking the engine/transmission. With all the shaking the vehicle fell down crushing Dogs Brother to death.. Dog went nuts tried to help him but it was too late and there was nothing he could do to save his Brother. When his brothers body was freed from under the vehicle, his brother's lifeless body laying there. Dog seen his brothers hand twitching, fingers still moving.....

For many years after his brothers death Dog stopped caring about himself stopped working on vehicles, covered up his brothers old car as it was a constant reminder of that day he lost his brother. After an investigation It was ruled as a tragic accident, but dog didn't feel that way he felt like he was the blame for his death.

Dog locked himself up from people just him in his own mind pondering and reliving what happened every day, him having horrible nightmares kept him up at night..